For many of us Ghanaians, discussions on spiritual issues sometimes leave some of us very emotional and others too, quickly condemn it as simply act of backwardness and mere superstition. Do you belong to that class of people who hastily condemn everything African especially our cultural beliefs and practices? Mr. or Mrs Intellectual, wait a minute. Do you know that Knowledge is like ocean and nobody has all the answers? Science explains the physical but has no answers to things spiritual so take your time to understand something before you give it derogatory labels. Well, everyone is entitled to his/her own opinion but for some of us, as media people, we will always share what is the news with our people and leave it as it for readers to ponder over the issues at stake.

In our research on spirituality, we have come across many literature and other important sources including The Secret, Rhonda Byrne, Dr. Simon Serviss's book, "Faith in a Contemporary World", Spiritual Cleansing by Drara Mickaharic: Eat,Pray, Love, One Woman's Search for Everything, Elizabeth Gilbert They all posit that all human beings, according to people who believe in religion, are made up of physical being which is what we are and see everyday and spiritual dimension which is invisible to our naked eyes. All religions therefore, are about explaining the real meaning of life and meeting the spiritual needs of man. They also like the US boxing legend says, all religious are like rivers, streams, lakes, ponds and the mighty ocean, they all contain water, and all religions contain some TRUTH.

how does one explain the downturn fortunes of a football player who was a national hero and suddenly goes into obscurity after marriage ? For many Ghanaians, we explain problems in two ways, regular common sense templates or through spiritual consultations. This is the reason why the alleged confession of the wife of the Ghanaian International football star on Emmanuel TV in Nigeria as being a witch is of interests to us as well as almost all Ghanaians: It raises a lot of questions about SPIRITUALITY:

From Peace FM Online comes the following news:

"Wife of Ghanaian international Richard Kingson has confessed bewitching her husband since they got married.

Speaking at the Synagogue Church in Nigeria, the woman revealed how she had used her evil powers to trouble the goalkeeper's career and made him impotent as well.

The pastor of the church, TB Joshua prayed for her and asked her to tell all that she was still hiding."
